

CLAYTON RID OF HIS ERRAND WIFE

Truant Officer Unable to Manage His Recalcitrant Spouse.

MEDIATORS ALSO FAILED
SHORT DIVORCE MATINEE BEFORE JUDGE MORSE.

That truant children are easier to manage than a truant wife seems to be the opinion of Alma C. Clayton, truant officer for the board of education. This assumption is based upon the fact that he has never asked to be divorced from his wife, although he asked for a divorce from his wife, which was granted by Judge Morse yesterday.

From the evidence adduced, Mrs. Clayton played "hooky" with a vengeance, and although her husband used all the means at his command to reconcile her, she steadfastly refused to "go to school."

Employed Mediators.

Clayton told Judge Morse that he had even employed mediators to visit her and try to persuade her to come back to him, but that he had paid her bills while she was away from him and had made many personal attempts to bring her back to him. All, however, were in vain, and therefore he asked for a divorce.

It appears that they were married June 27, 1902, and that she deserted him June 28, 1906. After she left a child was born to them, and although it is now in charge of the mother, Clayton said he had paid for its maintenance, as well as for the maintenance of another child born previously.

Nellie Arnold Divorced.

Nellie Arnold was granted a divorce from Louis Arnold, with whom she was married Feb. 17, 1906, and that he has not supported her since. She asked that the name of her husband, one Arnold, be restored to her. The divorce and the application for change of name were granted.

Ada West, a pretty, black-eyed little damsel of perhaps twenty, was the last petitioner. She does not want a divorce now, but only alimony and attorney's fees, pending the settlement of her suit against Silas West. Ada was neatly dressed in white and wore a dainty red bonnet, decked with roses. She presented a striking picture in the witness stand and told her story in a cool and modest manner. She said she was married to Silas West March 28, 1906, and that after three months of bliss he left her and refused to support her. She has a child five months old. Judge Morse granted her $20 a month temporary alimony and $25 attorney's fees.

DETENTION HOME WANTED

Probation Officer Is Agitating the Question and Is Meeting With Success.

Charles B. Hahn, chief probation officer of the juvenile court, has started an agitation for a detention home in Salt Lake. He argues that the juvenile court now has no place to care for delinquents except in the various penal and corrective institutions of the state, and that what is needed is a home where boys and girls can be placed under supervision of court officers without undergoing the odium which attaches to a sentence to the industrial school. In his crusade Mr. Hahn has secured the endorsement of the following: Mrs. C. E. Marks, state secretary of the National Juvenile Court Association; Mrs. E. J. Powers, principal of the Lincoln school; Alma C. Clayton, truant officer; E. S. Hallock, Franklin school; Mrs. A. J. Taylor, Mrs. Antonette B. Kinney, Mrs. A. L. Young, Mrs. John C. Bowman, Mrs. Emmaline E. Wells, Mrs. G. V. Parmelee, Mrs. Elizabeth Cohen and J. C. Mumford.

The board of education met last evening to receive bids for books for use in the public schools during the next five years. As the amount to be expended during that period aggregates $80,000, which is a large representation of bookmen, and bids from forty-one publishing houses were received. ## GRANTS FAVOR TO A SALOON

Council Holds Session in Warm Springs Thirst Parlor.

TWO BEERS DID IT ALL
STREET RAILWAY COMPANY OBTAINS CONCESSION.

"Just see what a couple of glasses of beer will do," was the comment of Councilman E. G. O'Donnell as he emerged from the Warm Springs thirst parlor after the council had held a meeting in the rear room and granted to the Utah Light & Railway company a franchise to operate cars in the north town as far as the gravel pit on the county road.

Earlier in the day, officials of the company, including Parley L. Williams, general counsel, had taken the council members over the route of the proposed extension in carriages. It was explained to the council that the extension was desired in order that the company might bring gravel into the city for P. J. Moran and for their own work.

After the tour the party adjourned at the Warm Springs saloon and were regaled with a "couple of glasses of beer" and some lunch. After being thus refreshed an adjournment was taken to a back room, where the council organized with Coopers that the extension was desired in order that the company might bring gravel into the city for P. J. Moran and for their own work.

Those in the party were Councilmen Carter, O'Donnell, Mulvey, Preece, Barnes, Wells, Perry, Black, Holley and Holdaday. Besides various officials of the company.

ABUSE AND THREATS ARE EXPRESSED IN UNSIGNED LETTERS

Neighborhood Wrought Up Over Vicious Anonymous Notes—Family of Harry Odell Target for Vilification.

$25.00 REWARD
For information of the parties that wrote the unsigned letters to us from May 1 to 9.
*****
HARRY ODELL,
131 West First South St., City.

An incipient Black Hand society has taken root and is flourishing in the vicinity of Eleventh East and Eleventh South streets in Salt Lake.

Vilification of respectable women of the neighborhood and the attempted intimidation of these women and their husbands by means of poorly written and unsigned letters, constitutes to date the manner in which the embryo Black Hand gang has operated.

On May 1, May 5 and May 8, Harry Odell, living at 1115 East Eleventh South street, received three letters in plain envelope, all written on plain note paper in scrawling, almost illegible handwriting.

Each of the three letters Mrs. Odell and one of her women friends of the neighborhood were called the vilest of their kind. The letters are all in the same handwriting and written with pen and ink. The writing is evidently disguised and many words in the letters are misspelled, evidently purposely.

Mr. Odell and the men whose wives are mentioned in the letters are about as angry a set of men as Salt Lake knows today, and when the writer or writers of the letters turn up an interesting time will probably result.

If the surmises of Odell and his friends are correct, regarding the authorship of the letters, several Salt Lake men and women are exercising a revenge on Odell and his friends for real or fancied injuries.

Unsigned, threatening letters are common enough, but those sent Mr. and Mrs. Odell club, composed in their tone and so vague in the vindictive threats they contain that Mrs. Odell and her women friends are suffering severely from the effects of the strain they are undergoing.

The letter which reached the Odell home during the past week was so timed that it was delivered to Mrs. Odell when the body of Mr. Odell's father was lying in the parlor of the residence awaiting burial. The two things combined shocked Mrs. Odell seriously.

Neighborhood Quarrel.

Two years ago in the vicinity of the Odell home at Eleventh South and Eleventh East streets there existed a social organization called the Combination Club, which had as its members several married men and their wives. Harry Odell was vice president of the club. The affairs of the latter went on swimmingly for a time, many social meetings being held at the different homes of the members, and all went on peaceably.

Trouble finally arose, however, over the claim on the part of several members of the club that certain men and their wives were dominating the affairs. The organization to too great an extent, and a year ago the club broke up, with many feelings unexpressed between several of the members, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Odell and several of their friends.

Since that time rumors have reached the latter that certain members of the club were circulating untrue stories concerning Mr. Odell and his friends. The latter have never been able to trace the rumored stories to any source or to find out who was the author of the same.

"I don't fear any bodily harm, nor do I of any of my friends or the ladies concerned in the letters," said Harry Odell, indignant, however, at the language used toward the women in the letters. I have not put the matter in the hands of the police as yet, believing that an advertisement in the newspapers might help me to get some track of the men responsible for the letters, and I could deal with them myself. I put an advertisement in The Herald.

This was the advertisement reproduced above. "Unless something more develops at once I shall turn the matter over to the police," continued Mr. Odell. "In any event I am prepared for any acts of violence the writers of those letters may attempt."

LOVING SWAIN KISSED WIFE TO BE AT THE MARRIAGE LICENSE COUNTER

Unable to restrain a demonstration of his undying love for his wife to be, Franz Grastel, of Scofield, bent over the fair young face of his sweetheart, Augusta Babbel, of the same village, and printed thereon an ardent kiss just as G. A. Gibbs, deputy county clerk, had just placed a marriage license for the couple, yesterday afternoon.

The affair was witnessed by a large gallery who had become interested in the German lad and lassie the moment they entered the room. Neither could speak English, and in the confusion which ensued the German lad, "Bill" Langenbacher, the elevator man at the city and county building, was called in to act as an interpreter. Now "Bill" is a German, but speaks only one dialect, and it was with extreme difficulty that he could make the couple understand.

"Bill" was standing close by and was about to make his get-away, when Gibbs called to him to come back. "Tell those people they aren't married yet," said the clerk, and "Bill" did. The bride, realizing that perhaps the kissing was a little hasty, blushed a deep crimson and Franz seemed a trifle abashed.

The knot was tied immediately afterwards, however, by David A. Smith, chief county clerk, and the German lad and lassie went out into the world as man and wife.

STRUCK WITH A ROCK.

Street Car Man Is Assaulted by a Passenger.

Charles Wade, a motorman, went to police headquarters early this morning; he was bleeding from a wound in the forehead. He said the while riding as a passenger on a Wandamere car at about 11 o'clock a man, who got off at Lovelock, stepped off the car to make the change, when, according to Wade's story, the man struck him in the head with a rock.

We continued this medicine until several bottles were used, when our boy was completely cured." Best of all blood medicines and body building health tonics. Guaranteed at Z. C. M. I. Drug store.

DEATH FOLLOWS CAR ACCIDENT

S. S. Lindenman Struck and Fatally Injured While Crossing in Front of Motor.

INTENDED TO BUILD HOME
HUSBAND AND WIFE PLACED CONFIDENCE IN FUTURE.

S. S. Lindenman, a carpenter, was struck and fatally injured by a street car at intersection of Second South and Second West streets at about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

This morning his wife is at a point somewhere between Florence, Colo., and Salt Lake, hurrying here as fast as train can bring her.

Lindenman came hither several weeks ago because carpenters' wages are higher here than they are at Florence. He had accumulated a fair-sized bank account and a little home was to have been started before the month was over, for the wife was to be here early in the coming week.

Lindenman came in from his work at Garfield yesterday afternoon and walked across the south side of Second South street. When he came to Second West street, he decided to cross to the north side of Second South. A depot car came up from the Rio Grande depot on Second South and stopped on the west side of Second West to discharge passengers.

Lindenman passed back of the rear end of the car. As he stepped upon the other track a depot car driven by Motorman J. H. Wilkinson and in charge of Conductor H. A. Lyon, going west, came across the crossing, and before Lindenman could escape, it struck and knocked him down.

The motorman dropped his head, but the carpenter had been struck on the forehead and his skull fractured. His body rolled under the rear end of the car, came to a stop, and he was taken out bruised and unconscious.

The patrol wagon carried the carpenter to the emergency hospital at the police station, where word was received to take the injured man to the L. D. S. hospital. Dr. J. H. Wilkinson attended to the wounded man. Lindenman died at 8:30 o'clock; he did not regain consciousness.

Dr. J. H. Wilkinson said that when the hospital attendants opened the letters and papers found in the pockets of the dead man's clothing, one letter was from the wife at Florence. Her name, according to the signature, is Ella. The letter thanked the husband for $5 he had sent her, and told of plans the two had made for a new home in Salt Lake City.

She had found that freight rates were high to Salt Lake, and she had decided that it was colder here, so she had decided to postpone her coming for a few days.

A card was found that designated Lindenman was a member of the local division No. 45 of Florence, Colo., of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. He had paid his dues a few days ago in Salt Lake. A watch was found, two notebooks and several keys, among the things in the pockets of the dead man.

The body was taken to Evans' undertaking establishment, where it will remain until arrangements are made for the funeral.

It is said the car which struck and fatally injured Lindenman was running at a slow rate of speed when the accident occurred.

QUIET AT THE JUNCTION.

No Disturbance Whatever at United States Company's Plant.

Reports from Bingham Junction are to the effect that everything is quiet and peaceful there. Deputy Sheriffs Anderson and Beckstead say they and their special deputies have the situation well in hand. A shot or two fired near the Greek houses, which at first caused alarm, proved to be only a demonstration in celebration. One car was in the street by Greeks and the ore, after the bins are filled, will be overrun upon the ground in order that there may be a surplus; the smelter has often suffered for want of sufficient raw material upon which to work.

AMERICAN FORK NOTES.

American Fork, May 17.—Alfred Dunkley came home from Heber yesterday, suffering with a serious case of appendicitis. He is at the home of his brother, Frank, and it is not decided yet whether he will have to undergo an operation or not.

Jesse Crookston, Jr., who has been confined to his home for the past week with a severe attack of grippe, is able to be around again, although still very weak.

Osmond Justsen, supervisor of the district schools, is arranging to have all the school children turn out to meet the M. & M. excursion which will be run to our city on the 22d and 23d of this month. It is the intention to have them lined up along the principal streets leading from the station on the line of march, each child to be supplied with a small flag. Last year when the M. & M. people made a short stop here on their way to Nephi, a large crowd of children met them.

Heath arrested W. Arnold and H. Witmaker and charged them with assault with a deadly weapon. The police are withholding the names of two other members of the gang who will be arrested this morning.

Mr. Russell bled profusely from the wounds about the head and it was necessary for him to be taken home in a cab. He lives at 722 East Fifth South street. He has the contract for the damper pavilion at Saltair for this summer, and is endeavoring to make some of the headmen on Market street a deputy sheriff.
